Editorial

The United Nations sponsored climate change conference held on the Indonesian island of Bali from 3 to 14 December 2007, ended on a positive note. Participating States agreed for Bali Roadmap and decided to launch a two-year process of formal negotiations on strengthening international efforts to fight, mitigate and adapt to the problem of global warming. To implement the Bali Roadmap, four major UNFCCC meetings are planned for next year, with the first to be held in by April. The negotiations process is scheduled to conclude in 2009 at a major summit in Copenhagen.

More than 10,000 delegates, lobbyists, scientists and bureaucrats from 187 countries participated in the Bali conference. The event was the first of a series of international summits scheduled over the next two years, which are to determine a legal framework for undertaking commitments beyond 2012. Thus, a strong multilateral framework should be put in place by 2009 to ensure that the international community has a negotiated commitment for greenhouse gas reductions after 2012.

In addition to the Bali Roadmap, participating countries have also agreed on a series of steps that can be taken immediately to strengthen their commitment to the UN Framework Convention on Climate Change (UNFCCC). An agreement was adopted that will allow Adaptation Fund to fund projects in developing countries that will help people cope up with the impacts of climate change over the next four years. The fund, currently worth over $30 million and which is expected to grow to an estimated $80-$300 million by 2012, will get its resources from a two per cent levy on all transactions of the Clean Development Mechanism. It was also agreed on a new programme to scale up investment for the transfer of clean technologies to developing countries.

Deforestation, which causes 20 per cent of all greenhouse gas emissions, also figured on the agenda in a major way for the first time in climate change discussions. Countries agreed on a range of measures to study and assess the issue including finding out just how to calculate emissions from deforestation, as well as encouraging demonstration projects that can address the needs of local and indigenous communities.

By adoption of a series of measures, the participating States have recognized the urgency of action on climate change and paved the way for adoption of stronger global framework beyond 2012. An agreement in Bali offers the possibility that the world, including the United States, will spend the next two years negotiating a treaty that limits greenhouse gas emissions and ultimately slows the warming of the planet. It is gratifying to note that there is a tremendous pressure from the concerned civil society groups, the scientific community and the people as a whole which it will not be possible even for the most obstreperous countries to resist.

They will fill the seats that will be vacated by the Democratic Republic of the Congo, Ghana, Peru, Qatar, and Slovakia on 31 December 2007. General Assembly Adopts Resolutions on Human Rights including Landmark Text Calling for Moratorium on Death Penalty

On 16 October 2007, the General Assembly adopted 54 resolutions and 12 decisions including a landmark text calling for a moratorium on executions to be established in all States that still maintain the death penalty, as well as a resolution strongly condemning rape against women and girls in all its forms, including in conflict situations. The resolution calling for “a moratorium on the death penalty” was passed by a vote of 104 in favour to 54 against, with 29 abstentions. It called on all States that still allowed capital punishment to “progressively restrict the use of the death penalty and reduce the number of offences for which it may be imposed”.

Among the 17 resolutions adopted by record vote, were relating to country-specific texts addressing the situation of human rights in Belarus, the Democratic People’s Republic of Korea, and Iran. As in past, the country-specific resolutions prompted heated debate, with several delegations - notably from the developing world - contending that they were selective and politically motivated, and that the Human Rights Council was the better venue to address such issues. Other representatives maintained that, as the only international body with universal membership, the Assembly was an essential forum for illuminating the world’s most critical human rights situations.

The General Assembly also adopted by record vote resolutions on the Rights of the Child; the inadmissibility of certain practices that contribute to fuelling contemporary forms of racism, racial discrimination, xenophobia and related intolerance; the Report of the Human Rights Council on the preparations for the Durban Review Conference; the right of the Palestinian people to self-determination; strengthening the role of the United Nations in enhancing the effectiveness of the principle of periodic and genuine elections and the promotion of democratization; globalization and its impact on the full enjoyment of all human rights; combating defamation of religions; the right to development; human rights and unilateral coercive measures; the promotion of peace as a vital requirement for the full enjoyment of all human rights by all; the right to food; and respect for the purposes and principles contained in the Charter of the United Nations.

General Assembly Adopts Landmark Resolution Concerning United Nations Development System, As It Takes Action on 32 Texts Approved by Second Committee

In an attempt to interlink poverty eradication, sustainable and economic development, and the achievement of the Millennium Development Goals, the General Assembly in its Sixty-second Plenary Meeting (PM) on 19 December 2007 set in motion two major initiatives today by unanimously adopting - among 32 development-related actions put forward by its Second Committee (Economic and Financial) - a series of groundbreaking resolutions, including a landmark text on the United Nations development system. After two and a half weeks of intense debate in the Committee, the Assembly’s adoption, by consensus, of a resolution on the triennial comprehensive policy review would shape United Nations development activities over the next three years, specifically on funding, national-capacity development and development effectiveness. Of the key initiatives adopted by consensus, one resolution set the modalities for the Review Conference on Financing for Development, to be held in Doha, Qatar, next year, and another proclaimed the Second United Nations Decade for the Eradication of Poverty (2008-2017), urging all Governments, as well as the international community, to continue seriously to pursue poverty eradication.

Case Concerning Territorial and Maritime Dispute Between Nicaragua and Honduras in The Caribbean Sea (Nicaragua v. Honduras)

On 8 October 2007, ICJ delivered judgment in the case concerning Territorial and Maritime Dispute between Nicaragua and Honduras in the Caribbean Sea. The facts of the case are as follows: On 8 December 1999, the Republic of Nicaragua filed in the Registry of the Court an Application dated the same day, instituting proceedings against the Republic of Honduras in respect of a dispute relating to the delimitation of the maritime areas appertaining to each of those States in the Caribbean Sea. In its Application, Nicaragua invoked the jurisdiction of the Court on the provisions of Article XXXI of the American Treaty on Pacific Settlement, as the “Pact of Bogotá”, as well as on the declarations accepting the jurisdiction of the Court made by the Parties, as provided for in Article 36, paragraph 2, of the Statute of the Court. ICJ unanimously found that the Republic of Honduras has sovereignty over Bobel Cay, Savanna Cay, Port Royal Cay and South Cay. By fifteen votes to two, ICJ determined the maritime boundary that divides the territorial sea, continental shelf and exclusive economic zones of the Republic of Nicaragua and the Republic of Honduras. By sixteen votes to one, ICJ found that the Parties must negotiate in good faith with a view to agreeing on the course of the delimitation line of that portion of the territorial sea located between the endpoint of the land boundary as established by the 1906 Arbitral Award and the starting-point of the single maritime boundary determined by the Court to be located at the point with the co-ordinates 15° 00' 52" N and 83° 05' 58" W.

International Court of Justice (ICJ): Territorial and Maritime Dispute (Nicaragua v. Colombia)

On 13 December 2007, ICJ delivered judgment in Nicaragua v. Colombia case. On 6 December 2001, the Republic of Nicaragua filed in the Registry of the Court an Application instituting proceedings against the Republic of Colombia in respect of a dispute consisting of “a group of related legal issues subsisting” between the two States “concerning title to territory and maritime delimitation” in the western Caribbean. In its Application, Nicaragua invoked the jurisdiction of the Court on the provisions of Article XXXI of the American Treaty on Pacific Settlement signed on 30 April 1948, as the “Pact of Bogotá” as well as on the declarations made by the Parties under Article 36 of the Statute of the Permanent Court of International Justice. As regards the first preliminary objection to jurisdiction raised by the Republic of Colombia on the basis of Articles VI and XXXIV of the Pact of Bogotá, ICJ by thirteen votes to four, upholds the objection to its jurisdiction in so far as it concerns sovereignty over the islands of San Andrés, Providencia and Santa Catalina. By six votes to one, ICJ found that it is not necessary to examine the objection to its jurisdiction in so far as it concerns sovereignty over the other maritime features in dispute between the Parties and the maritime delimitation between the Parties.

DS312: Korea - Antidumping Duties on Imports of Certain Paper from Indonesia

On 22 October 2007, the Dispute Settlement Board (DSB) adopted the compliance Panel report (WT/DS312/RW) in dispute on antidumping duties on imports of certain paper from Indonesia. DS334: Turkey - Measures Affecting the Importation of Rice

The DSB adopted the Panel report (WT/DS334/R) on Turkey – Measure Affecting the Importation of Rice on 22 October 2007. The Panel concludes that Turkey’s decision, from September 2003 and for different periods of time, to deny, or fail to grant, Certificates of Control to import rice outside of the tariff rate quota, constitutes a quantitative import restriction, as well as a practice of discretionary import licensing, within the meaning of footnote 1 to Article 4.2 of the Agreement on Agriculture. Accordingly, it is a measure of the kind which has been required to be converted into ordinary customs duties and is therefore inconsistent with Article 4.2 of the Agreement on Agriculture. The Panel recommends that the Dispute Settlement Body request Turkey to bring the inconsistent measures as listed above into conformity with its obligations under the WTO agreements.

DS366: Colombia - Indicative Prices and Restrictions on Ports of Entry

At the second time request of Panama, on 22 October 2007, a Panel was established to review Colombia’s restrictive measures imposed on Panama’s imports. Panama declared that Colombia unilaterally ignored the mutually agreed solution which was found during this consultation and reintroduced measures restricting Panama’s access to Colombia’s market. The countries that reserved their third party rights are Guatemala, Ecuador, Honduras, the EC, India, the US, and Chinese Taipei.

On 3 December 2007, the DSB adopted the Appellate Body report (WT/DS332/AB/R) and the panel report (WT/DS332/R) on Brazil’s measures banning imports of retreaded tyres from the EC. DS336: Japan - Countervailing Duties on Dynamic Random Access Memories from Korea

On 28 December 2007, the DSB adopted the Appellate Body report (WT/DS336/AB/R) and the panel report (WT/DS336/R) on Japan’s countervailing duties imposed on DRAMs imports from Korea. WTO Issued Arbitration Report on Gambling Dispute

On 20 April 2005, the DSB adopted the report of the Panel in this dispute, as modified by the report of the Appellate Body. The Appellate Body inter alia upheld the original panel’s finding that the United States’ Schedule includes a commitment to grant full market access in gambling and betting services and upheld the Panel’s finding that the United States acts inconsistently with Article XVI:1 and sub-paragraphs (a) and (c) of Article XVI:2 by maintaining certain limitations on market access not specified in its Schedule. On 19 August 2005, an arbitrator established under Article 21.3(c) of the DSU determined that the “reasonable period of time” for the United States to implement the recommendations and rulings of the DSB in this dispute was 11 months and 2 weeks from the date of adoption of the Panel and Appellate Body Reports by the DSB. By December 2007, the Arbitrator determined that the annual level of nullification or impairment of benefits accruing to Antigua in this case is US$21 million and that Antigua has followed the principles and procedures of Article 22.3 of the DSU in determining that it is not practicable or effective to suspend concessions or other obligations under the GATS and that the circumstances were serious enough. Accordingly, the Arbitrator determined that Antigua may request authorization from the DSB, to suspend the obligations under the TRIPS Agreement mentioned in paragraph 5.6 above, at a level not exceeding US$21 million annually.

The Special Chamber of the Tribunal constituted to deal with the Case concerning the Conservation and Sustainable Exploitation of Swordfish Stocks in the South-Eastern Pacific Ocean (Chile/ European Community) on 30 November 2007 adopted an order further extending the time-limits of the proceedings for one year until 1 January 2009. The case was submitted to a Special Chamber of the Tribunal at the request of Chile and the European Community on 19 December 2000. The case raises, inter alia, the following issues: whether the European Community has complied with its obligations under the United Nations Convention on the Law of the Sea to ensure the conservation of swordfish in the fishing activities undertaken by vessels flying the flag of its Member States on the high seas adjacent to Chile’s exclusive economic zone; whether the Chilean decree which purports to apply Chile’s conservation measures to swordfish on the high seas is in breach of the Convention; and whether the “Galapagos Agreement” of 2000 was negotiated in keeping with the provisions of the Convention. By Order of 20 December 2000, the Tribunal constituted the Special Chamber, consisting of Judge P. Chandrasekharra Rao, President of the Chamber, Judges Caminos, Yankov and Wolfrum, and Judge ad hoc Orrego Vicuña.
